Mix and Mash Your Way to a Freer Youth Culture

Fair Use Remix Institute - Chicago

July 7-18th, 2008 (m-f, 11 til 4)

Mash It Up and Protect Remix from Censorship

In the past few years, Video Remix has exploded on the Internet. Remix is a powerful and potent form of political satire and critique of TV news, commercials, campaign ads, George Bush speeches, coverage of the war in Iraq, music videos, celebrity culture, sexism and racism. Youth use remix to talk back to the media. Remix is a cultural right protected by the Fair Use Provision of Copyright Law. However, YouTube and other video sharing sites are under pressure to filter out all digital content that quotes from copyrighted material in the near future. That means Remix may be censored

FURI is a two-week summer workshop in which you learn to create political video remixes and mashups from a youth perspective that can be legally defended as FAIR USE. FURI is taught by professional remix and video artists.

FURI is a hands-on video workshop where you learn how to appropriate material and edit it using programs like Final Cut Pro as well as on-line mixing tools.

In FURI, you will learn about copyright law, intellectual property and fair use. You will know what is legal and what is piracy. You will learn how to speak about your own video works as Fair Use at conferences, schools and events nationally.

In FURI, you will be among the first to use Remix America & Kultura
